Authorization for this examiner's amendment was given in a telephone interview with Ronald Reichman (Reg. No. 26,796) on 04/25/2007.

The application has been amended as follows:

In claim 12, on line 23, delete, "quantative", and please insert, -- quantitative --;

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 12-22, 24 and 26 are allowed.

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: Claim 12; 24 and 26 identifies distinct features, "determining if the monitored information relates to a particular information source, determine a value rating associated with the user for the particular information source in accordance with the monitored information, creating an updated profile for the user in the user profile database in accordance with the monitored information, if a value rating is determined, associating the value rating with the updated user profile and recording the value rating in a related value rating database, determining if a list is to be generated, calculating an estimated value to the user of an information source as a function of the user's profile, profiles for others of the users, and value ratings for the information source associated with the other users profiles, repeating estimated values have been calculated for all of the information sources, selecting and outputting to the user, or saving for later output, information sources having estimated values so that the user receiving the list of information sources will have a quantitative estimate of the likely value of each of the sources". The closest prior art, Huper-Graff et al (U.S. Pub. No. 2004/0044677) disclosing information sources and user database, fails to suggest the claimed limitation as mentioned above in combination with other claimed elements. The above features in conjunction with all other limitations of the dependent and independent claims 12-22, 24 and 26 are hereby allowed.
